^ You will be presented with several shipping options during Checkout:

PriorityCourier (PuroPak) is the most expensive, and delivery is next business day (if we receive your order early enough in the day). A delivery signature is required. Ignore the reported 1970 delivery date. XpressPost is delivered by the US Postal Service (Priority Mail) and does not require a delivery signature. It takes 3 or 4 business days, and has a service guarantee which applies from the date it is shipped (not necessarily the date you ordered, if we happened to run out of stock). Expedited is the most economical trackable method if you are ordering multiple kits. It is delivered by the US Postal Service, and a delivery signature is usually not required. TrackedPacket is the cheapest trackable method (around $16), and may take anywhere from 3 days to 1 week to arrive, via US Postal Service. A delivery signature is usually not required. SmallPacketAir is the cheapest method (from $11), but it is not insured nor is it trackable. Your order will be delivered by the US Postal Service, and could take a week or more (ignore the reported 1970 date).

Please note: if you select this method and your order is lost or delayed, we assume no responsibility!

* If you receive a foreign transaction charge on your credit card related to a purchase you made with us, please contact your Card Issuer to discuss it. Some credit card companies charge a handling fee for purchases made to vendors outside of the USA. This charge is not levied by us, and is beyond our control.
